Ascension of Our Lord (Year C)

As Jesus was taken up into heaven, his disciples looked on. They had just received final instructions from him, along with clarification of what he had already taught them. They understood a bit better now, having seen all they had seen. For those who believe in Christ, the hope of our calling is centered in his life, death, resurrection, and ascension into heaven. Eternal life awaits us, but for now we work for Christ.

THIS WEEK’S SCRIPTURE TEXTS

First Reading: Acts 1:1-11

Jesus’ Ascension

The apostles questioned Jesus concerning the time when the promised Holy Spirit would appear. In reply, Jesus told them that the time was not theirs to know, but when it happened, they were to share the Good News concerning Jesus in their own city and beyond. Having thus commissioned the apostles, Jesus ascended into heaven before their eyes.

Psalm 47

Sing Praises to God

The psalmist proclaimed that God is Lord over all the earth. Sing to the Lord your highest praise! He is Lord over princes and rulers, godless nations, and all people. God is exalted above all things.

Second Reading: Ephesians 1:15-23

The Hope of His Calling

The author of Ephesians prayed that the members of the church in Ephesus would continue in their faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, receiving wisdom and revelation from the Holy Spirit so that they might better know God. All this was so they might know the hope to which they have been called, which is centered in the resurrection.

Gospel Reading: Luke 24:44-53

You Are Witnesses to These Things

Jesus opened the minds of the disciples to the scriptures, enabling them to understand his death and resurrection as the fulfillment of the prophecy. He then promised that they will be his witnesses to all nations. As he led them toward Bethany, he blessed them and ascended into heaven, disappearing from their sight.

Suggestions for the Day:

- Liturgical Color: White or Gold
- Use the Kyrie and the Hymn of Praise in the Easter season.
- Use the Nicene Creed during this festival season.
- Today is the 40th day after Easter, the day on which we mark Jesus’ ascension into heaven. This day has great theological significance. Because Christ ascended into heaven and “is seated at the right hand of God,” as the Creeds confess, we know that we have a great High Priest in the heavenly places that intercedes on our behalf. We know that because he died and was raised from the dead to live in heaven, we will share in that same course of events. This is foundational to our faith.
